

Opinion Article

Importance of education in human life

Sam Howell*

Department of Education, University of Ilorin, Ilorin, Nigeria.

Received: 03-Mar-2022, Manuscript No. IJERR-22-56722; Editor assigned: 05-Mar-2022, PreQC No. IJERR-22-56722 (PQ);
Reviewed: 19-Mar-2022, QC No. IJERR-22-56722; Revised: 24-Mar-2022, Manuscript No. IJERR-22-56722 (R); Published: 31-Mar-2022.

DESCRIPTION

We need education to understand and respect our responsibilities to our community, families, and country. It gives us with the skills, techniques, information, and knowledge we need. As a result, education has a huge and complex impact on people's lives. Education is essential in one's life since it allows everyone to have a positive outlook on life. Education aids in the acquisition of new ideas and the discovery of new concepts. With education, a person's ability to use technology improves. Education, without a doubt, imparts the technical skills needed to use technology. As a result, without education, running intricate machinery would be difficult.

Importance of education

In one's life, education aids in the acquisition of information and the development of self-confidence. It can help you advance both professionally and personally. A well-educated person has the ability to contribute significantly to society. It assists you in making wise life choices. Education's importance begins in our childhood, which begins at home, and it is a lifelong process that will end with our death or, if there is an afterlife, will continue there as well. If our culture lacks education, our globe will not have a bright future.

The motor that propels the modern, developed, and industrialised world is education. To be able to survive in this competitive culture, we all require information as a torch that illuminates the path. Some of the qualities of education that illustrate its importance in human existence are listed below.

The chances of an educated person becoming involved in criminal activity are exceedingly minimal. A person with a good education is more aware of his or her surroundings and is less prone to be fooled or deceived.

Education is vital to our society's and country's poverty eradication. Poverty has a strong hold on our culture and is one of the root causes of all of our problems. A person with a strong education can get a good job and earn enough money to support his or her family.

Education teaches everyone the importance of peace and fraternity. The importance of being unified and spreading love is critical. For international peace and the prevention of violence and terrorism, education is essential.

Our country's populace must be educated and taught the importance of following and obeying our country's laws and regulations before a good political philosophy can be developed. Citizens who follow the law contribute significantly to the strengthening and maintenance of the country's and the world's law and order.

The importance of education is recognised by all stakeholders, including governments, organisations, and students themselves. In families of all socioeconomic levels, high-quality education, particularly tertiary education, is a main engine of development. Furthermore, as many goals have been merged, the value of education has increased, and individuals have become more conscious of the environment and society, resulting in a level of awareness not seen in previous generations. The World Bank blog entry "Education is Fundamental to Development and Growth" effectively summarises the fact that education, in various forms, has the power to change people's lives.

Individuals' maturation is aided by education. The lifestyles of educated people are infiltrated by sophistication. Above all, education instills the virtue of self-discipline in individuals. People who have received an education are also more conscious of the value of time. To educated people, time is equivalent to money.

Finally, education enables individuals to successfully communicate their viewpoints. Individuals with a higher education level are better able to express their opinions. As a result, educated individuals are more likely to persuade others to agree with their viewpoint.

*Corresponding author. Sam Howell, E-mail: samhowell@gmail.com.